At the table,

 those who speak
 must push hard,

stepping on fancies
and laugh lines. Each of us has a motor

    to engage.

 Though the shy look
    forever stalled

     in others’ exhaust,
 everyone expresses, really,

          a style
           racing against another.